SPONSORSHIP PACKAGES

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME) student section at New Mexico State University would like to request your support to help our generation of upcoming engineers be the best they can be! ASME members are working on two hands-on engineering projects:

- 1- BattleBots, in which we design a 3-lb robot capable of surviving in the arena against competitors. We wish to travel to competitions outside of Las Cruces, such as Colorado!
- 2- Innovative Additive Manufacturing 3D-challenge (IAM3D), which this year involves designing a scale interplanetary exploration rover capable of traversing difficult terrain and excavating materials. The competition will take place next year in Dallas, Texas.

Funds raised by ASME will be used to purchase equipment, materials, program outreach, and cover travel expenses. We cannot do this without your support!

For any questions, please contact Uriel Quintero at (575) 288-7193 or urielqu@nmsu.edu
